

I was very disturbed to hear that there are people that want to tell me that as a traveler I cannot have available to me the information I need such as weather and traffic when I go into a city that I do not know. The traveling public has an option for satellite radio that they can utilize when traveling the United States with out hunting for a radio station to listen to and then not know whether they have traffic and weather either. Before I retired I was a traveling salesman and did not have the benefit of this as I drove and now it is a relief to know where to go to get this information. Please do not let others take away my ability to get this information where I want to get it.
